Witness and spirituality

A Balanced Life

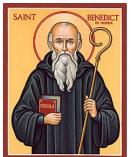

Rev Dr Gary Stuckey

"Come away to a deserted place all by yourselves and rest awhile." Jesus' invitation to the disciples to "come away... and rest" was given after they returned from a time of intense ministry. Jesus recognised the disciples needed a period of renewal and refreshment, so offered the invitation to spend some time aside.

Jesus modelled this pattern in his own life and ministry. His active life was punctuated with regular times of drawing aside. So we see him rising before dawn to go out and pray, withdrawing for a time of prayer, praying all night to maintain his deep connection with God, and to nurture his own inner being. Richard Rohr comments that Jesus had a pattern of alternating between the desert and the city. In the city he would minister through teaching and healing, but his energies would diminish, so he would retreat to the desert. In the desert he would connect with God, and then return to the ministry of the city with a clearer focus.

There come times for all of us when we need to take some time for refreshment and renewal. We may have been caught up in busyness, we may have had a period where expectations on us have diminished our energy, or we may sense God leading us in some new direction and we need time and a space to ponder what this may be. Or, there can be any number of other reasons that create a need to find a time and place for refreshment.

St. Benedict was another who knew the need for us to have balance in our lives. The wisdom of Benedict's Rule was that he was able to advocate for keeping all the various aspects that make up our life in their proper place and proper balance. So there was time allocated for work and for prayer, for eating and resting, for studying. Not too much of one at the expense of another. Not too little of any so as to diminish that which is necessary in life – keeping in balance the work of ministry and the times of refreshment and renewal we all need.

The Urban Mission Retreat at Stillpoint will allow you to spend time exploring the wisdom that comes to us from the Rule of St. Benedict. In coming to delve into Benedictine spirituality, we may be drawing on spiritual wisdom that is 1500 years old, but it is also timeless. It's very longevity suggests an ageless wisdom that can speak to people in any time. In a world that has ever newer and more wonderful means for getting where we are going in life, perhaps people have begun to guestion the ends to which they are leading. In times of uncertainty we may need to retrace our steps back to a point where we became lost and find a reliable guide to direct our journeying. Many people are finding that reliability in Benedict. As we spend time with Benedict we too may well discover something of that wisdom.Please reply to: susan@ urbannetwork.org.au, including any dietary requests.
